"Rags" the 15th, Well-Known Dog Dies Wednesday, Aged 19

Rags, the German shepherd, police dog, of Carl Weber, downtown druggist, is dead. She died Wednesday at 15 years of age and today the entire lower section of town is mourning. Every man, woman and child in the business district has a dog.

Going back over the 15 years of Rags' life, Carl Weber said she was a real servant as well as a pet. "Rags was a smart dog," he said, "and, under good conditions, she was a 'Don't Baby It'."

Fifteen years ago, Patrolman Peter Kersman gave Weber the dog after he had lost several "Let this one alone and don't baby it" was Kersman's advice. "I followed that advice," said the druggist, "and Rags developed into one of the best dogs I ever owned. She ate everything from sauerkraut to oranges, and never was sick."

Once Dr. Philip Poley, local veterinarian was called to perform an operation on her ear, but her condition was not serious, and she continued to be as active as ever for six years after.

Made Good Doorman.

Rags understood many commands. She'd open the door for children and close it after customers in a hurry, on instructions from her master. In the winter time, Rags always paid special attention to the door. She could open and close any kind, regardless of the type of lock or knob.

Once Rags had 10 pups and it was at this time that she was in particular favor with the children of the neighborhood who gathered around the store window where she and her family were on display.

And Good Watchman.

As a guard, Rags had no equal. She faithfully guarded the drug store for the 15 years Weber owned her, even refusing to per-

Flapper Perplexed.

Flapper, a great dane owned by the druggist, cannot understand the absence of Rags. Every day they played together. Flapper misses the fun, and the kind carresses of Rags who used to walk up and "kiss" Flapper on command of her master.

And the kiddies are lonesome for their pal, who used to balance a candy on her nose, toss it into the air when they said so and then catch it.

All downtown misses Rags and probably it will be a long time before a canine half so intelligent becomes as popular as she was.

Local Men Report They Also Paid on Suit Club Basis

Several men called at police headquarters Thursday evening, and related a tale of having joined a suit club, agreeing to pay a dollar a week for which they were to receive a suit of clothes valued at $39.

They paid their dues but said they did not get their suits. The men said that they signed with a man representing himself as an agent of the Lawrence Williams Co. of New York city. One of the suit club members said he wrote this concern and the letter was returned.

It is evident that the same agent that was active in Kingston also organized members in Saugerties. There 11 men in that village paid all of the dues with the exception of the final dollar, which the agent did not show up to collect.

Through the efforts of Chief A. H. Richter, of the Saugerties police department, these men will not receive suits, since the police chief made an investigation.

Today another member of the Kingston branch of the Suit Club called at police headquarters and took the matter up with the police.

It is expected that the local members will swear out warrants for the arrest of the agent unless his family comes to his rescue and makes good.

Cunningham Is Blanchard Counsel

Whatever solution is made of the dilemma of Rollo K. Blanchard, wealthy manufacturer of Irvington, N. Y., will be left to the judgment of Judge William D. Cunningham, formerly of Ellenville, it was learned today.

Judge Cunningham is the legal advisor of Mr. Blanchard in whose home Mrs. Hedi Heusser has been on a hunger strike while awaiting a promise of marriage. Mrs. Heusser, earlier in the week announced that she would remain in the home of the manufacturer until he promised to marry her, but subsequently she ended the strike and is now under the care of a nurse.

Answering queries as to what he would do to discourage the persistence of Mrs. Heusser, Mr. Blanchard recently said in the White Plains office of Judge Cunningham, "I'll do whatever my lawyer says."

New Regulation in Effect For Beauty Shop Workers

Effective today is the new 48-hour, six-day work week for beauty shop operators, enacted by the 1938 legislature. This law, it is expected, will "end the unlimited work week in beauty shops of New York state," according to State Industrial Commissioner Andrews. The law, however, he added, is "sufficiently flexible to permit adjustment of the work schedule to the peculiar requirements of the industry, with his week-end rush."

Topping's foot slipped off the brake pedal and went through the floorboard.

McCormick Body Found on Peak

chief north of Sandia Peak is the body of Merrill McCormick.

The body was found crumpled on the side of a towering cliff, on the northeast face of Sandia Peak.

Veteran mountaineers said it would be late today before the shattered form could be brought out.

Although a guarded official statement said identification was not absolute, members of the family clearly indicated their conviction the tragic hunt was at an end.

A wallet found near the body, reliable sources connected with the searching party said, established it was that of Young McCormick. A hat and a leather jacket, also believed those of the youth, were found nearby.

The body was discovered almost precisely on the opposite side of the knife-like peak from the ledge on which the lifeless form of Richard Whitmer, the young man's 20-year-old climbing companion, was found last Friday.

It had come to rest on a narrow shelf, about 250 feet from the top and 400 from the bottom of the peak's sheer rock face.

Experienced woodsmen of the forest service expressed belief a lightning flash might have tumbled both youths to their deaths from the knife-edged crest of the mountain.

McCormick and Whitmer disappeared into the Sandias nine days ago on a daring attempt to climb the "Shield," considered one of the most difficult mountain peaks in the Rockies.

The Schellmans recently sold their business in Saugerties and have taken possession of their new purchase, installed equipment and are establishing a modern filling station, trailer and tourist camp. The sale was negotiated by Frank S. Hyatt of 277 Fair street.

Feats Bring Injuries

Rome, July 1 (AP)—Four Fascist party chiefs were injured today attempting to show Premier Mussolini their gymnastic ability. Two federal secretaries fell on the points of bayonets over which they were trying to jump from a springboard. Another was scorched leaping through a ring of fire. A party inspector landed on top of a tank and injured his chest.

ern Attends Rites at Elmira

Muel Stern, downtown operator, and a member of the board of managers of Elmira Reformatory, is back in his lower duty office after attending the dedication of the Roman Catholic Chapel at the institution today.

The Mass of dedication was celebrated by Bishop James E. McElroy, of Rochester diocese, in addressing the gathering. He recommended more religion in the boys to save young citizens from prisons.

It is deplorable that more light is not given by the state to these young people religion before they come to prison," said Bishop McElroy. The chapel on the top floor of the institution building at Elmira.

The chapel was built to follow policy of having separate places of worship for Catholics, Protestants and Jews. It seats 100 people.

Ceremonies of dedication were held by five monsignors and priests from New York state, Pennsylvania, and by Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, of the state department for prevention of crime, who addressed a gathering of officials at luncheon following the church services.

Dr. Frank L. Christian, superintendent of Elmira Reformatory, acting as toastmaster, introduced Commissioner Mulrooney and other speakers. The commissioner at the end of his speech awarded diplomas to 15 graduates of the Elmira Prison School for Guards. Among the wardens and other prison officials at the ceremonies were Captain John L. Hoffman, of the Napanoch institution for Male Delinquents, and S. J. N. who is also on the board of Napanoch.

WASHINGTON—In 1934, drought. The wheat crop went to pot, falling so low that some had to be imported. It was nature's first dom blow at crop control, said many farmers, half believing themselves.

Buckety-buckety all over the wheat belt arose opposition to further crop control and the lid was off in 1937. A reasonably good crop was harvested, and in spite of a carryover of 200,000,000 bushels, prices remained above the "dollar wheat" level through the fall and early winter of 1937-38.

As talk developed of new crop control machinery, farm delegations poured into Washington. No wheat quotas for 1938, they urged. Congress and the Department of Agriculture consented, although some able farmers and most specialists in the Department of Agriculture smelled trouble.

Big Crop, Low Price

HERE is the situation. Normally the U. S. eats 650,000,000 bushels of wheat, exports another 100,000,000 and carries over in bins and elevators an additional one or two million. But this year a billion bushel crop is in sight which, coupled with 200,000,000 carried over from 1937, has at times put the market down as low as 70 cents a bushel, although it is higher now.

Under strict terms of the crop control act, wheat farmers expecting to share any further federal benefits would have to agree to son and son, John, were supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howe in Walden Tuesday evening.

There will be regular preaching services in the New Hurley Reformatory Church on Sunday morning, July 3, at 11 o'clock, with the Rev. Frederick Shield, Jr., in charge. The Rev. Mr. Shield is a son of a former pastor of the New Hurley Church. Sunday school will be held at 10:30 o'clock. Everyone is most cordially invited to attend these services.

Did you ever try to perpetrate a bit of humor on one who has not the remotest idea of a joke? It is awful and usually requires an apology. Wouldn't it be awful to have to live with a woman who can't see a joke, or a man whose sense of humor is non-existent.

'Benefits' To Farmers

HOW is the Department to persuade farmers to scale down their 1939 acreage?

First—Farmers who comply with crop control regulations get 12 to 15 cents a bushel in "benefits" on a "normal acreage." That normal acreage is determined by what the farmer has grown in the past and what Department experts think he should raise in the future if he is to farm well and conserve his soil.

Second—In addition to "benefits," complying farmers may expect eight cents a bushel on their "normal" 1939 crop. That is from the subsidy voted by Congress near the end of the session.

Third—By a system of loans the farmer will be guaranteed a minimum of 60 to 86 cents a bushel on his 1939 crop if it becomes necessary for the government to store the surplus.

Altogether the crop control job stacks up as a painful operation. It starts July 15, five days after the Department learns for sure just how big the billion bushel crop really is to be.

Sunday Services at Flatbush Reformed Church

Sunday services at the Flatbush Reformed Church will be as follows: 9:45 a. m., Church School, Miss Maye Osterhout, superintendent; 10:45 o'clock, morning worship with quarterly celebration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Subject of meditation, "And they sang a hymn and went out." At 7:30 p. m. there will be the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at the church. Topic for discussion: "Summer Plans."

Friday, July 8 at 2 p. m., a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Anderson.

Wallkill School Groups Graduate

The annual graduation exercises of the John G. Borden High School were held Tuesday, June 28, in the school auditorium. The Salutatory address, "The History of John G. Borden High School," was given by Howard Terwilliger.

Some bright spots are: 1—The prospect of 1938 crop reduction by rust. 2—Slack crops in parts of Europe. (Note—a billion bushel crop in 1915 brought whopping profits because of the war.)

The graduates were Perry Adams, Ida Bellington, Evelyn Birdsell, Carl Brach, Robert Brown, Robert Elgnor, Alma Harris, Ruben Kochler, Edward Kovitz, Otto Kraus, Theodore Masten, Florence Meredith, Herman Ratzker, Hope Reeves, Eleanor Roach, Charles Staszewski, and Howard Terwilliger.

Flower girls and ushers were Margaret Edsall, Dorothy Marcinowski, Lois Morehouse, Irene Ring, Joyce Taggart, Margaret Wager, Floyd Adams, Manuel Alonzo, Donald Baxter, Harold Birdsall, Norman Clark, Franklin DuBois, Andrew Harcher, Paul Kovitz, Ellis Masten, Philip Rice, Christopher Scott and Arnold Sheeley.

KRIFFLEBUSH. Krippelbush, June 30.—Church was well attended the last Sunday in spite of the rain.

Lester Vandemark and John Smith, who have been ill, are reported improved.

Church next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. F. Baker in charge. Sunday school at 1:30 William Schoonmaker, superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vandemark of Mettacaught called on his mother, Mrs. Jane Vandemark, recently.

July 4 is the big day at Krippelbush. There will be music and a supper. The affair starts at 6 o'clock, with supper at 6 o'clock at the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall. Proceeds will be for the church.

Miss Dorothy Davis has employment at the Trowbridge boarding house.

MOTHER AND 38-OUNCE BABE

Shown in a Nashua, N. H., hospital are Mrs. Horton Glynn, 18, of Bennington, N. H., and her baby girl, who weighed but 38 ounces at birth. The attending physician said both mother and child were "doing nicely," and expressed the opinion the mite would live.

Ankrom had no choice. It was his life or theirs. One brown fist flashed beneath his coat and came out spitting flame in a steady stream.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NYE

Chapter One Never Trouble Trouble

WHERE the trail crossed a high plateau the tall, lean rider on the gaunt buckskin halted his dusty animal and sat loosely in the saddle looking back. He scanned the burning way with eyes narrowed beneath his down-pulled hat, but no moving speck disturbed the heat haze that hung like a pall over the earth.

This was not the first time that the bronzed rider had halted for a cautious backward glance. Many times during the past few days he had done so. Once or twice he had seen solitary horsemen, but they had been traveling different courses.

As he lounged now, with one knee crooked about the horn, his left hand went to his shirt pocket and extracted cigarette papers and a pack of tobacco. The same left hand rolled a smoke and his tongue licked the tiny cylinder while his eyes scanned the backtrail.

With a shrug he lit the cigarette, broke the match in two and let it drop. Some of the cold intensity left his glance as he faced front once more and knelt the buckskin into movement.

Abraham Lincoln Ankrom he had been named by fond parents in the hope that one day he might be great. But such distinction as had thus far come his way could not have been farther from their dreams. Up and down the twisting length of this South-western border country he had achieved fiery notoriety as "Blur" Ankrom—king of the corpse-makers.

He had found no pride in the distinction, nor had he sought it; it had come upon him octopus-like against his will. Men had deliberately brought him quarrels that they might lay claim to the eminence of having "downed" Blur Ankrom. But their hands had been a little slow.

The lines of his face deepened as he thought of those drifting leather-slappers whose greedy lust for the reputation he did not want had taken them to hell on shutters. Gradually the realization was being forced upon him that now here could he hide from their breed or from the turmoil that, like some ghostly Nemesis, dogged his horse's steps.

He had grown weary of the attempts to find some haven where he might let down his vigilance. Such a place it seemed, for him, did not exist. Peso Pinto lay ahead and there, he told himself, he would stand tonight and give himself the rare treat of a night in bed beneath a roof.

To show himself thus openly in a town, even a place the modest size of Peso Pinto, would be dangerous. But danger, loneliness and himself had been companions during these last two years. And he was tired of his efforts to avoid trouble.

He crossed the sandy, stifling stretch of desert at a slow lope, passed the whitewashed stone marker and urged his buckskin across that invisible line that separated himself from the State of Texas.

The afternoon slouched along and the plop-plop-plop of the buckskin's hoofs made the only sound in the vast silence. To his right, miles away across the haze of heat, a broad mountain range rose from the baking earth, one great peak towering high above its companions. Ankrom knew this peak and from it checked his course.

Presently he could discern far off the sand-scoured adobe of Peso Pinto where they lay squat and solid against the yellow and fore which he stood. And yet this seemed unlikely for the place was dark and shuttered. He stooped down beside his horse as though inspecting the cunch.

Seconds passed and he finally straightened. He cursed himself for a fool; told himself this thing was none of his business. His proper course was to ride along. "Never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you," he quoted softly, and was reaching for the horn with one foot lifting toward the stirrup-when the cry came again.

Gleaming Metal

SLOWLY Ankrom set his foot down, the out-thrust arm returned to his side. He turned and stared at the wooden building. There was no movement among the shadows about its door.

"Extremely odd," he muttered and eyed the house again. He felt sure now that the cries he'd heard had come from there. The last one had been a sort of gasp. Slowly, not quite knowing just what he was going to do, Ankrom started forward.

He was almost to the door when a scream cut the quiet. Thin and high it was and stopped abruptly as though a hand had roughly clamped across the mouth.

Ankrom hurried his body sideways. What warned him he did not know, yet even as he moved a gleaming thing of metal whizzed past three inches from his shoulder, embedded itself in the post beside his horse.

Toward that door Ankrom sprang quickly. The muscles bulged like ropes along Ankrom's jaw as his shoulder struck the door and smashed it. His momentum flung him across the threshold reeling into a room dimly lit by a lamp that showed him three men crouched before a wild-eyed girl who was lashed to a chair. By their clothes and evil faces he knew those men for city thugs. A glowing branding iron was gripped in the outstretched hand of the nearest.

As Ankrom caught his balance that man let drive with the red-hot iron straight at his head. Ankrom ducked. When he came up the right hands of the thugs were behind them in hip pockets and coming out weighted.

Ankrom had no choice. It was his life or theirs. One brown fist flashed beneath his coat and came out spitting flame in a steady stream. Deafening reverberations rocked the room and snuffed the lamp, plunging the place in blackness through which cut lance-like jets of fire.

Something struck Ankrom's right shoulder heavily, smashed him backward and whirled him half around. From the tail of his eye he saw a black shape slide out through the open doorway. For long moments, tensely alert, Ankrom crouched in the gloom with leveled gun. Nothing moved. Finally he struck a match.

One of those thugs lay slumped against a wall. Another was face down on the dusty floor with one arm outflung, the other doubled beneath him; his feet sprawled wide apart. The third had vanished.

The girl's eyes were upon him intently. There was some strange, unreadable emotion stirring in her depths. A dirty handkerchief had been bound across her mouth; no doubt placed there after she had screamed. He moved toward her where she sat lashed to the chair and her eyes remained steadily on his face. There was a question in them.

Sparkling Crowd Sees First Play At New Playhouse

It was a sparkling cosmopolitan crowd which gathered last evening at the Woodstock Playhouse to view the riotous comedy of present day life, "Yes, My Darling Daughter," presented by Robert Elwyn's company.

The theatre, which seats almost a thousand, was filled before the opening curtain, and many were turned away.

Among those present was Alfred de Ligne, Jr., who produced the play in New York city. Several notables who own summer residences were present also, as well as many who dwell within Ulster county.

the unusually large proscenium and one saw more old friends moving about in their usual life style. If many admiring comments from the audience mean anything, Robert Elwyn should have no trouble filling the theatre as it was last evening with not even standing room available.

"Yes, My Darling Daughter," initial production of the new "Woodstock Playhouse," is a comedy which was praised highly by New York critics. In a merrily, mischievous mood, Ellen Murray, a streamlined daughter of today, tells her mother the facts of life and incidentally that she is about to elope on a promiscuous honeymoon before her sweetheart departs for a two-years' job abroad.

Playing the parts are Frank Rolke and Velma Boyton, creating a Woodstock audience for the fifth consecutive year. Betty MacDonald and Robin Batcheller make their bow in Woodstock for the third year. Harry Young and Charlotte Fitch make their debuts in Woodstock with this comedy.

There will be performances this evening, Saturday, Sunday and a special July 4 program. Curtain at 8:45.

Misfire.

San Francisco—Dedication of the new Marina fire station went off on schedule with James Coleman, master of ceremonies—playing a major role. But the ceremonies did not follow the script.

Just as Coleman started to introduce the mayor the alarm sounded and the firemen made their first run from the new building—to extinguish a blaze in Coleman's house.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—They're saying that Artist Willy Fogarty's suit over the Connie Bennett portrait didn't get what Bridge of Things, Connie, winning this one and her action against that British film company for the picture they didn't make with her, looks like 1938's courtroom star. She has another one pending against a commentator for slander.

It's listed among the sandwiches on the studio commissary menu, but it might be a formula for a musical: (H)um and (C)heese and (C)hicken on (T)oast! The Critics' Special (unlisted) should be Roast Ham with Beef.

Stardusts Prominent
Speaking of beef, our recent one on the "press preview" situation found its best justification at the "Blockade" preview, although that was a picture worth standing for as we (arriving late) did along with other tardy press men. The word got around that there was a picture that SAID something, and the promise was so unusual that Hollywood, unaccustomed as it is to that sort of thing, stormed the theater and the whole business got out of hand. Other stardusts: Harry Cohn, of rival Columbia, and Walter Wanger, who made the picture.

A young writer friend of ours has been pounding at the studio gates for years, crashing only the "Indies" and a few air programs. "Ever get discouraged?" we asked solicitously. "Never," said he. "You see," he explained, "if I allowed myself to think, 'dismally for a moment I'd be sunk.' What keeps me going, though, is the fact that when I do get something on the screen or air the audience laughs at the right places, and cries at the right places."

A Violent Circle
"Well, doesn't that convince producers?" we inquired innocently. "Convince them? No! The only thing that will convince a producer is a screen credit on a big picture."

"But how," we asked, "do you get a screen credit on a big picture?" "That's just it," said he. "It's like a fellow who can't get a job without experience and can't get experience without a job. Violent circle."

"Then what?" "What's the use, you're going to ask? Well, some day I'll slip up on 'em and click—break through the circle."

I think he will, at that.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The other night a young man died nearby Broadway, died after he had been given a blood transfusion by one of his close friends — Richard Watts, dramatic critic of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The young man who died was Don Skene, and he was one of the true stories of Young Man of Manhattan, a witty and skillful sports writer who occasionally bounded from his newspaper chores into assignments to do movies and novels.

Don was a frail, quiet-spoken fellow, but with a subtle sense of humor and a power of description that made him a hero and success among sports reporters.

HE FIRST came to Manhattan because of a historic deed he did at the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago. He was then a sports writer for a west coast newspaper and he was the only newspaperman at Tunney's camp a few hours before the fight when all the other scribes had gone to the arena to make their last minute preparations for covering the bout.

At this moment Tunney came in with a slight cut over his eye and doctors decided that the wound was serious enough that he might not be allowed to enter the ring. In a prime story and not a sports writer, with the exception of Skene, in sight.

Skene parked himself in front of a typewriter and imitated the style of the forty-seven or more other fight writers covering the camp and filed a story to their respective papers for each of them.

In the excitement and anxiety to protect his pals, Skene forgot to file a story to his newspaper he requested. He was fired.

So the late sports editor W. O. McGeehan told him to come on to New York and he would give him a job on the sports staff of the New York Herald-Tribune.

THIS blond, soft-spoken fellow became a favorite with Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth and other sports notables when he came to New York. He wasn't the fast-talking Broadway type. Instead he went around saying quietly, "Listen, Jack, I think this is a good idea..." And Dempsey and the others would listen to the quiet Skene and usually he was right.

A fascinating teller of long stories, you could frequently find Skene sitting for hours in a tavern in the Forties, an enchanted group around him, as he talked on, telling one of his grand tales. And usually you would find two of his most admiring listeners who went on before him—the late Ring Lardner and Percy Hammond.

Could Find Hat. Hyde Park N. Y., July 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt were his bodyguard's hat on his motor trip New York yesterday. Preparing to leave home for two speeches at the world fair grounds the chief executive couldn't find the Panama hat he wanted. He started to leave bareheaded. Then Tom Quarters, the bodyguard, offered his chief his own floppy brimmed headgear. The hat fit and the President kept it on.

LEGION HEAD DENIES BEING "GAGGED"

Daniel Doherty (right), of Woburn, Mass., national commander of the American Legion, is shown with Reuben T. Shaw of Philadelphia, president-elect of the National Education Association, in New York after denying that he had been "gagged" at a N.E.A. meeting the previous evening. Doherty told assembled teachers that recent criticisms of the Legion by Northwestern University Professor William Gellerman were "the puny product of a small mind." Both he and Shaw indicated their followers wanted harmony.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By the Associated Press

Motherly.

Stafford Springs, Conn.—Mrs. Mary Fedorchuk says her turkey gobbler does a better job of hatching than any turkey hen she ever saw.

The tom hatched out 22 young turks a month ago. Now he has eleven more eggs under him.

Coincidence.

Savannah, Tenn.—Glen Culver, 24, was stricken with appendicitis and brother Earl, 20, hurried him to a hospital.

Glen was in the operating room when Earl complained of a sudden pain.

"Appendicitis," said the doctors.

He followed Glen on the operating table.

Heroes Not Wanted.

Del Monte, Calif.—The average college athletic star may be a hero on the campus but he's no dazzling prospect as a husband, in the opinion of Gamma Phi Beta girls. As matrimonial material, the hero who comes through to win the game was rejected by a three to one vote at the international convention of the sorority here.

ACCORD.

Accord, July 1.—Post office hours Monday, July 4, will be from 7 a. m. to 10 o'clock standard time. There will be no rural delivery.

The post office will close at 5:30 p. m. standard time, Saturday afternoon during July and August.

Mrs. Peter Coddington, Ross Coddington, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coddington and son Francis, Jean Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Coddington of Kingston, motored to Liberty to attend the graduation exercises of the class of 1938, of Liberty High School. Val Coddington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Coddington, of Liberty, was a member of the class. Following the exercises the Coddington family met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Coddington to celebrate the young graduate's 18th birthday.

To Hold Services.

Services are now being held every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Binnewater Union Chapel, with Alonzo Edward Burger of Ulster Park, pastor in charge. Mr. Burger opened the country chapel in May.

Supervisor Deadlock Ends When Board Compromises

A compromise plan under which the Republicans and Democrats will divide the principal offices has been effected and as a result the Board of Supervisors of Greene county will again function after a lapse of almost six months during which the Board was deadlocked. At the 1937 elections, Republicans captured seven seats and the Democrats took over a like number.

When the meeting was called in January for organization the deadlock developed and held the board powerless to elect officers.

Large Party Held For the Younger Set

One of the summer season's outstanding social functions of the younger set occurred last evening at the home of John E. Weber, 60 West Chestnut street, who gave his pretty debutante daughter, Joan Weber, a sports dance which was attended by exactly 63 of her school friends.

The dance was held in the decorative barn in the rear of the Weber home. Throughout the long evening and well into the early hours, the guests danced to music offered by Robert Steuding and Sidney Spiegel.

During the evening an amateur hour was conducted by Mr. Steuding. Despite the fact that the majority of the assemblage was gifted with musical or talking parts, only two young ladies ventured up to the bandstand to offer their joyous vocalizations, Mary Martin sang "Music, Maestro, Please" while Ruth Saxe vocalized on the popular song creation, "Love Walked In." Both songsters received an enthusiastic applause.

Tables adorned the outer edge of the up-to-date barn and on every light a Japanese lantern was placed presenting a romantic atmosphere. The fresh evergreens along the sides and back walls lent an air of village dancing.

Those who attended as chaperons were Mrs. Ida Krieger of Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Weber and John E. Weber. The large guest list included the Misses Miriam DuBois, Cecelia Netter, Jane Rafferty, Peggy Farrell, Marjorie Delaney, Jean Larkin, Martha Jean Bernstein, Mary Martin, Elaine Iseman, Leola Saddlemyre, Joan Dutcher, Gay Chambers, Ruth Saxe, Kathryn Osterhout, Marie Rose, Marjorie McNelis, Peggy Lewis, Jetta Egan, Gwendolyn Kershaw, Rose Campbell, Eleanor Doe of Boston, Marjorie Fitzgerald, Marian Reed, Peggy Gannon, Elizabeth Gill and Hazel Kaufman; the Messrs Charles Beck, Thomas Malnes, Robert Weber, Milton Cole, James Farrell, Collins Troy, Larry Quilly, Ernest Mosher, Thomas O'Hara, James Abernathy, Donald Abernathy, William Whitney, Edward Schrowang, John Cooke, Andrew Murphy, Jay DeWitt, William Cole, Joseph Garland, William Powers, Robert Cole, Alfred Rose, Robert McDermott, Robert Iseman, John Cunningham, Vincent Woltersteig, James Geary, Thomas Connolly of Port Jervis, Amos Newcombe, Lloyd Newcombe, Louis Nekos, Peter Osterhout, John Harris, Spencer Enlist, Robert Ross, Richard Decker, Robert Stone and Irwin Thomas.

Favors and two large birthday cakes added to the loveliness. Before cutting the birthday cake and the serving of refreshments all the children sang "Happy Birthday." Several children entertained. Miss Shirley danced a buck and wing; Miss Colleen danced a rhythmic buck; Miss Hilda Brown sang and danced; Miss Jeanne Amand of New York city, gave a dramatization sketch entitled "Rosa"; Mary Darling and Jane Stewart sang a duet; Margaret and Marilyn Crane sang; Shirley DeGraff danced a tap number; Sonny DeGraff played a cornet solo accompanied by Junior Kaprellian on the drums. The playing of these young artists was delightful for they played with much assurance and ease and the technique and interpretation were excellent.

Special mention should be made of the original composition, "Moonlight," by Robert Wolfersteig, sung by his mother, Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig, and also the piano numbers by Vivian Swart, Virginia Fay, Beatrice Monars and Elizabeth Rowland, four difficult compositions played with finish and which received favorable comment from the audience.

Ben Jeby's Team of Amateur Boxers in Features Tonight

Seven Bouts

Sorenson, Sempervino, Perfetti and Raigins Listed in Five Rounders — Prelims Promise Plenty of Action

Everything is in readiness for the big boxing show at the municipal auditorium tonight starting the best battlers up state in opposition to the sluggers from Ben Jeby's New York amateur team.

Action galore is expected in every scrap tonight from the first preliminary at 9 o'clock right up to the main attraction showing Carl Sorenson, intercollegiate ace from Syracuse, against Howie Means, New York Golden Glover.

Sorenson, who fought his way up through the ranks in the Adirondack division of the A. A. U. to a scholarship at Syracuse University, is in tip-top shape for Means, he reports, and is ready to put on the best boxing show of his career.

Means, who has met and defeated some of New York's best punchers, hopes to bring laurels to the group coached by Ben Jeby, former middleweight champion of the world, who will appear here with the team.

In the other top bout of five rounds, Vince Sempervino, Schenectady star, will trade leather with Herbie Solomon, the metropolitan battler, who is expected to give the former Hawaiian Islands champ a tougher time than did Richard Creamer, who slipped over a lucky one after being on the losing end right up until the blow was struck.

Dom Perfetti, Amsterdam's national Diamond Belt champ, is down for two rounds with Harry Gine, New Yorker, who has been bowling 'em over in the big city. Charlie Raigins, the Saugerties Bomber, is matched with Vince Angelo, another Jeby protégé, in the fourth five rounder on the card, and is ready to give the sort of action that has made him a favorite with the local boxing fans.

The three rounders: Joe Caprotti, Kingston, vs. Carlo Litz, Albany.

Monk Armstrong, Kingston, vs. Billy Pelez, Albany.

Emerson Dubois, Zena, vs. Phil Memerth, Albany.

The regular popular prices prevail, with a special offer for students, as advertised on the posters.

Kelly's Corner

A Baseball Disappointment—Joneses-Caseys Tonight

By Joe Kelly

Too bad about that misunderstanding between the Colonials and the Mohawk Giants last night. Things like this are bad for baseball. ... We suggest that Manager Davi complete all financial arrangements before looking in road attractions, and wait until game time to settle matters. ... Furthermore, there are no bleachers, after all those promises. ... The Colonials are headed for the road and we wish them luck in their heavy week-end schedule.

Phoenicia patrons of American basketball League games are brought up over the so-called transfer of the Kingston transfer to Troy. ... We talked with some of them yesterday, and were they hot. ... Forgive to ask them about Babe Ruth and his connections with the mountain club since he is busy himself with Brooklyn. ... But, the Babe cannot forget Phoenicia and his fishing expeditions, so he'll probably stick as honorary president of the ball club.

This evening's two big sports attractions in Kingston are: The City League baseball game at 6 between the Joneses and Knights of Columbus, and the amateur boxing bouts at 9 in the municipal auditorium. ... Featuring the fistie carnival are two top-line bouts: Carl Sorenson vs. Howie Means, and Vince Sempervino vs. Herbie Solomon. ... Means and Solomon are from Ben Jeby's New York Golden Gloves team. ... Local kids on the bill are Charlie Raigins, Emerson Dubois, Jess Caprotti and Monk Armstrong.

It's time for the Dodgers to quit. ... They can't win in the city and they can't win at night. ... They thought so little of Seabiscuit as a two-year-old he was used principally as a work horse. ... Bernie Masterson, star batterback of the Chicago Bears, will marry a Chicago girl July 4. ... The day he eliminated Charles are, high ranking British player on the national clay court championship, Eddie Allcock, 19-year-old California sensation, sent a 150-word telegram to his old coach, Tom Stow of Oakland, giving Tom credit for the victory and telling him what a great guy he is, etc. ... The cockles of Tom's heart were well warmed up until he found the message had been sent—collect.

Reports keep bobbing up that either Bernie Bierman of Minnesota or Frank Thomas of Alabama will succeed Bill Spaulding at U. C. L. A. next year. ... Bob Pastor makes his next start against Red Burman at Newark, July 11. ... When Johnny Vander Meer won himself a couple of no hitters and became a celeb, Warren Giles, general manager of the Reds, offered to handle Johnny's business for him. ... They signed a contract under which Giles was to receive $1 for his services. ... Now he can't collect the dollar.

Championship Skeet Shoot
The annual skeet shoot to decide the skeet champion of the club will be held at the local traps, Sunday, July 17. Without doubt every member will seek the honor and some lively competition is looked for.

Each skeeter will shoot at 100 targets and the man breaking the greatest number will be awarded the arm brassard designating him as club champion for the year 1938.

Mohawks Refuse to Play Colonials in Night Contest Here

Because of a disagreement on financial terms, the night baseball game between the Kingston Colonials and Mohawk Colored Giants was not played Thursday at Pan Am Field.

Manager Fred Davi of the Colonials, although he did not reveal figures, said, "The Giants wanted an unheard of amount to play at the last minute, although last week they were satisfied with the terms I made with them to play in Kingston."

Last night's game was to have been played under lights, starting at 9:15, but the paraphernalia was not set up, neither were the bleachers.

Tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 sharp the Colonial players will depart for their trip upstate, leaving from the Crystal Beauty Shoppe on Wall street. Manager Davi probably will use Toddy Uhl in the night contest Saturday in Utica and Joe Brown and Lanky Andy Celuch Sunday for the twin engagement in Little Falls in the afternoon. In the evening the Colonials will be back in Utica. The battery for Monday's game in Schenectady is uncertain.

Mohawks Shut Out Saugerties, 10-0

The Mohawk Colored Giants, who refused to play the Colonials on account of "money trouble," did well by themselves in Saugerties, Thursday afternoon shutting out the Taverns at Cantine Memorial Field, 10-0.

Buck Ewing, the famous old catcher, and his ebony experts ganged up on two Saugerties pitchers, Sweet and Traphagen, for 13 hits. Sweet gave up 11 in eight innings. He struck out three, Traphagen two and Coleman of the visitors, two.

One of the hits made by the Mohawks was Johnson's homer. Buck Ewing connected for a triple and Reddie and Durant for doubles.

Coleman allowed the Saugerties boys only four bingles, but he issued five free passes to first. Sweet gave three walks.

The Giants collected two runs in the first inning, two more in the seventh and six in the ninth to make up their 10.

Dodgers Shut Out Boston 5-0, Yanks Stretch String to Five

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

They nailed a "For Rent" sign on the Dodgers' "doghouse" today. For the first time in years, Van Mungo doesn't live there any more.

"The arm" gave up his long term lease on the strength of a one-hit pitching effort for a 5-0 win against the Boston Bees yesterday.

He showed a world of stuff and a lot of his old speed against Casey Stengel's stingless Bees. Hal Warlick's two-bagger opening the fifth was the only hit off him.

While Mungo's was only one of six elegant elbowing jobs during the day, it was easily the most impressive. More important in the pennant picture, however, were the seven-hitter Castleman turned in for the Giants and the three-hitter Blanton posted for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Terrific Terry's outfit really didn't need all the pitching. Castleman gave them. Almost any slinger could have coasted home behind the 19 hits the Giants fired in futility the Phillies, 14-1.

Since Blanton's three-hitter was at the expense of the slumping Reds from Cincinnati, giving the Pirates a 3-1 decision, the National League race was somewhat changed. "The Giants' first-place margin was raised to four full games, and the Bees climbed over the Reds into second place.

Yanks Extend Stretch

Over in the American League, the Yanks stretched their winning streak to five straight, behind big Rufus the Red Ruffing, who allowed only four hits and set down the Athletics, 7-1. Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich contributed homers. The Yanks remained three games behind the Cleveland Indians, however, for the Tribe nozed out the Tigers, 10-9.

Jack Knott, strictly a loss in his days with the Browns, returned to St. Louis as a member of the Chicago White Sox and tossed a four-hitter at his ex-teammates for an 11-1 victory. Young Jim Hagby allowed only six hits and paced the Boston Red Sox to an 11-1 win over the Senators.

Fire Divers Will Be at Williams

Daring fire dives through burning hoops set at a 30 foot height by Herman Ringler and Davey Russell will be featured in the diving and fireworks show at Williams Lake in Rosendale Monday night. The diving act by these two star performers will be augmented by a spectacular display of fireworks surpassing the one shown at the Rosendale resort last July 4. The show will go on shortly after dark.

Undoubtedly the greatest group of divers ever to perform on one program at Williams Lake will be the Jones Beach troupe, on Sunday afternoon. After the show, the troupe will drive to Manhattan Beach in Brooklyn for a night exhibition.

Included on the team are Madeline Karson, Norma Dean, Stanley Dudek, George Cronin, and Bill Marquette. They will go through a thrilling routine of comedy and fancy dives.

Mayor Proclaims Nursery Tag Days

A Proclamation
As Mayor of the City of Kingston, I take great pleasure in proclaiming Friday and Saturday, July 1 and 2, Tag Day for the Volunteers of America.

This organization is conducting a successful day nursery on Barnmann avenue. The great service and convenience of this nursery to many mothers who find it necessary to seek employment, to the mothers who otherwise could not have their children cared for while they are working, is of untold value.

Mothers are assured that their children are being adequately fed and supervised by capable attendants. Such a service in Kingston has met with outstanding success.

Another most essential service which this organization is providing is the care of indigent transient women. At the Volunteer's home they may find shelter and sympathetic assistance from trained directors.

The organization is now in need of our support in raising funds to buy and beautify the building they now occupy and thus promote this splendid work.

I urge all citizens to generously contribute through the purchase of tags on Friday and Saturday.
